TITLE AND ABSTRACT

* Title: Impact of trade credit utilization and firm performance

* Abstract: of the companies, with the purpose of strength the model, researcher has included three control variables to the model of the study. The sample of this study is all the listed manufacturing companies in CSE during the period of 2009 to 2018. Basically there were 41 listed companies in the sample and due to the unavailability of data, only 31 listed manufacturing companies were selected for the final analysis. Panel data regression was used to analyse the data using Eviews software. According to the results of the study, profitability is positively influenced by trade credit accounts payables and short-term debts. Furthermore liquidity level is positively related to the profitability, while firm age and firm size are negatively related to the profitability.
